

Develop a low-cost device that can give real time feedback for in session correction of exercise

Generate post exercise visualisations that will allow for analysis of parameters used to measure improvements

Objectives

POAKme is an application that interfaces with the on-foot device, POAKY, to give real time feedback regarding movement of the foot and warns the user when rotational movement occurs.

Solution

